

A HARMONIOUS CHANT.

To come down to the strict truth, politically, who can boast of a willingness to harmonize all factions? This question applies both to Republicans and to people of all parties. There are several loud voices lifted just now, all chanting harmony. Harmony means union, unity of purpose.

In Hawaiian politics divisive strife is the predominant feature. This is explained by the fact that every man or coterie of men in politics in this Territory harbors the idea that in the success of their own individual wishes is to come the greatest good that can be gained by the Hawaiian public. Within the different parties, each worker or gang of workers is thoroughly convinced that in the achievement of personal plans is to be found the highest party glory.

This is as illogical as it is detrimental to the public good. It may be a condition from which there is no escape, but it is a condition, which, so long as it remains with us will make politics in Hawaii the peanuttiest politics under the flag.

There can be no headway in the direction of harmony unless those who are proposing harmonious action show some disposition to concede.

VAGUE ASPERSIONS.

There are three lawyers in Hilo bearing the euphonious name of Smith. There is John U., Carl S., and W. H., (presumably William Henry). They are each and every one good looking men and popular. They individually possess those pride which enable men to sustain without complaint, long campaigns of calumny, abuse and neglect. They each and every one would die on the rack of torture or be burned at the stake without emitting a sound of distress or sending forth a call for help. Of late however, this trio has been subjected to pictorial innuendos in the Advertiser of Honolulu, which call for a protest from their friends. An alleged cartoonist has been playing on "Mr. Smith of Hilo" at such length that public feeling is being stirred. No one knows which Smith is referred to, therefore the indignation cannot come to a focus. It spends itself like the troubles of a tempest tossed sea. The waves devour each other. If the Advertiser artist ever specifies which Smith he is driving at, he will be mobbed by the friends of that particular Smith.

JUDGE LITTLE'S STATEMENT.

EDITOR TRIBUNE:—I wish to say to my friends throughout the Territory who have been kind enough to consider my name in connection with the nomination for Congress: That I have not, am not, and will not be a Candidate for the Republican nomination as Delegate to Congress, and my name will not go before the Republican Territorial Convention for the nomination. While I am a stalwart Republican yet, since assuming the bench, I have not taken any part in politics whatever, and whenever I conclude to do so my friends will not be left in doubt as the course I shall pursue or the platform upon which I shall stand.

Very respectfully,
G. F. LITTLE.
Hilo, Hawaii, Aug. 21, 1912.

The article in this issue of the TRIBUNE describing the methods in vogue on the Horner ranch in the matter of poultry raising is worth reading. It describes the successful way and proves that there is a way to succeed in many lines in Hawaii.

The first issue of the World News, a Chinese publication in this city, appeared this week. It has an excellent general appearance and seems to be full of news.

S. DECKER REAL ESTATE

I am prepared to sell you a lot at Kaumana, 2 1/2 miles from Hilo, on the installment plan—$25.00 down, balance in $1.00 weekly payments.

Why lease land when you can buy it for the same money.

My Kaumana Addition is platted into 40 lots, beautifully situated on the main road, 2 1/2 miles above Hilo. The tract commands a view of the sea from Hakalanu to Puna.

Call at my office on Wainuenue Street, . . . next to office of J. U. Smith . . .

MAY the gun club prosper.

WHEN the Herald ventures to predict what the TRIBUNE will say under certain hypothetical conditions, it is carrying its guessing gymnastics to a needless excess.

WITH the Claudine arriving in Hilo in the middle of the afternoon on Wednesday the people are cordially saying of the Kinau "I don't care if you never come back."

TRACY DEAD.

Man Killing Outlaw Is Run to Earth Near Spokane.

Spokane, Wash., August 6.—Harry Tracy is dead, but in dying he made one of the grimmest fights for life and vengeance ever made by a desperado. The battle was short but fierce. It was fought to the bitter end on the part of Tracy. Wounded twice, so that further flight was impossible even if life itself remained more than a brief time, realizing the utter hopelessness of further combat with the determined little band who had at last brought him helpless to earth, possibly crazed by his desperate plight and by the pain of a broken bone and a strap pulled tight in an attempt to stanch his flowing lifeblood, Tracy ended his life by his own hand. Lying hidden in a field of wheat, the yellow stalks of which were reddened by his blood, retreat on all sides cut off, even if he were able to do more than crawl, with his shattered and torn leg, just after darkness had fallen the notorious criminal, who has sent so many to death with coldblooded precision of eye and aim, reversed his revolver and with a pressure of his thumb on the trigger blew off the top of his head. When day broke his pursuers found the stiffened body and read the story.

Funacoshi Bound Over.

After a trial lasting fully a week, Funacoshi, the second one of the Japanese charged with the murder of Motihora, was bound over by Judge Hapai last Tuesday to await the action of the Grand Jury next January. The evidence adduced by the prosecution in the case of Funacoshi was of little different character from that presented in the case of Watanabe. The Court set the date for proceeding with the trial of the others accused at 10 o'clock today.

AN ART CALENDAR.

Nothing Can Beat it as an Advertisement.

THE ART CALENDAR as a vehicle for carrying an advertisement originated and was brought to perfection at Red Oak, Iowa. The Thomas D. Murphy Co., is known wherever good advertising is known and the art excellence of their calendars has done for Red Oak, what a certain brand of beer did for Milwaukee.

You and your business can find no easier road to fame than the Murphy Art Calendar route.

The TRIBUNE has 1903 samples, call and make selections before the choice subjects are taken. The 1903 line of Thos. D. Murphy Calendars is the finest that has ever been shown in the Paradise of the Pacific. One picture alone in this splendid calendar line cost as much as an entire line of ordinary advertising calendars. It is distinctively an art line.

Some of the artists whose paintings appear are Henry P. Smith of Old New England Homestead fame, Ada S. Stewart, the animal painter, Harry Roseland, whose quaint negro studies are the despair of imitators; E. L. Paxton, a painter of western scenes; Muss-Arnolt; Geo. Howell Gay who painted the Star of the Murphy Line "A November in Old Virginia."

Of foreign painters, the leading salon exhibitors of Paris and best genius from Denmark and Spain have been drawn upon by this house which is the boldest manufacturer of high class advertising specialties in America. The chief d'oeuvre of a score of world famed artists are owned by this company which makes nothing but calendars. The subjects are controlled and copyrighted by them and in Hilo they can be procured only at the TRIBUNE office. The equal of these calendars cannot be found anywhere. Yet they afford the cheapest and most effective mode of advertising.
